DID YOU KNOW?...

With grateful remembrance...

*Our Lady Queen of Angels (1940), was the second church built in Kula following Holy Ghost Church (1899) and St. James the Less (1950).

*OLQA parishioner Maile Morreira (grandfather: Joseph Shim) descends from the upcountry Chinatown Shim family that helped build the Kula pipeline for much needed water.

*Some at Holy Ghost say the statue of the saint with the cute pig is there because they are a farming community. Might this be St. Anthony the Great, the founder of monasticism, patron and protector of animals?

*Travelers to the earliest Holy Ghost feastday celebrations arrived from Lahaina and beyond on horseback. The church began the tradition of feeding the wayfarers with laulau and more. Willie Jacinta and family continue to donate a couple of cows to the annual feast. Granddaughter Katie Jacinta plays ukulele at OLQA. She is also the niece of Father Michael Owens.

Living the present with passion...

*As OLQA guitarist Keith Pocca put away the YCL Pope Francis banner, he shared that he looks forward to the Palm Sunday gathering of the communities of St. John's Episcopal church and Holy Ghost Church at Keokea park. There they share scripture followed by the triumphal entry of "Jesus" on a live donkey before going to their own churches.

*OLQA choir member Dorothy Purdy is also a Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet Ohana Associate. Her husband Wayne accompanies the choir with his guitar.

*Deacon Damien Pires (wife, Lorraine) is a cousin of Father Patrick Freitas. Last year, his aunt, Sacred Hearts Sister Dolorine Pires, celebrated 70 years of religious profession!

Embracing the future with hope...

*Holy Ghost parishioners Kalei and Alana Hurdle and family, eagerly await the home visit of their son, 4th-year Seminarian Keone who is at Redemptoris Mater Archdiocesan Missionary Seminary of Guam.

*Pastor Thomas Joseph encouraged parishioners to pray with their children and grandchildren to consider becoming a priest or a religious.
